

INA STONE

Ina Stone is the embodiment of her conviction that communicating well is relationship-building at the base, personally and professionally. Corporate managers and meeting planners recommend Ina because she understands business and she knows how to relate to her audience. With her high energy and infectious smile, Ina radiates a motivating love for life. Audiences enjoy Ina Stone's clear insights and vibrant delivery. Ina is available for conferences, training, individual mentoring, small business or corporate consulting. Compiling the book, CEO Speaks, Sage Advice During Turbulent Times, which was released June 2010, includes 40 CEO interviews.

Ina has worked with Sprint, BellSouth (ATT), the FBI, multiple military organizations, The Gap, Delta Airlines, Savvis, UPS and more.

From her book Ina references CEO's take on ethics, thought leadership, persistence, entrepreneurial spirits, best business practices, the economy and more...a must read, no time to read, available on multiple CD's January 2011.

In Their Own Words....

"Ina is fantastic. She is an excellent author, an in-depth interviewer and she really understands business. She's real, open and a pleasure to collaborate with."

Barry LaBov, CEO LaBov and Beyond.

"Ina Stone has been a great collaborator within projects and in connecting people with organizations. She cares about what she does and the people with whom she works. She is most personable and well organized. Her knowledge and expertise in telecommunications has opened new doors for me; I would work with her anytime and recommend her highly."

"Ina Stone is an expert in streamlining your telecommunications transition when you relocate your office. Don't get caught in the telephone trap and end up with no service! Call Ina several months in advance and take all the worry out of your move! Ina is a great presenter as well. Have her speak at your next group or organization...you'll love her!"
